

PREMIUM QUALITY
GEORGIAN ORGANIC TEA OFFER

HISTORY

From the beginning it was back in 1809, two hundred years ago... Prince Mamia V Gurieli (1809-1826), last ruler of Guria principality in Western Georgia, took great interest in transforming and developing the agricultural sector.

GURIA, GEORGIA

Following the advice given by the French botanists Andre Michaux and his son Francois Andre Michaux, who were the first to bring the tea plant to the United States in 1799, the Prince ordered the first Tea - Camellia Sinensis samples. These were brought to his botanical garden by the Scotsman Jacob Montague Marr, together with other exotic plants. Cultivation of this once unknown plant has laid the grounds for the development of what in the following decades became one of the biggest agricultural industries in Georgia.

ABOUT US

“GreenGold – TEA EXPORT COMPANY” was founded in 2016 and has rehabilitated up to 25 hectares of abandoned tea plants, which are located on the high mountains in the region of Guria, Georgia. This is one of the most famous region with it’s high quality tea in the country. This is the place where high mountain fresh air meets the sea breeze and creates the best climate.

Georgian plantations are well-aged and seed-grown which adds complexity to the taste and flavour. In addition, cold winters reduce the tea growing season in Georgia to only seven months, which gives bushes time to rest and gather strength.

Tea plants are organic certified and all of the harvests are done by hand. Our special European products have completely different aroma and taste comparing to “well-known” Asian tea.

TAIGULI / თაიგული

Black Tea

TAIGULI, in English meaning "Bouquet", is made from freshly harvested finest tea leaves. Full of tips and plucked by the hands of the local villagers. Made according to the traditional Georgian Black Tea technology, with some corrections of the modern one, that gives an unique taste.

Aroma and Taste of TAIGULI

An ideal fine tea to drink until mid-afternoon. The light amber color indicates that it is a black tea. It is a clean tea since it does not present any glaze or deposits. Bright and alive tea. The aromatic intensity is moderate.

The liquor has a predominant malt aroma. The wood is sharp and you could almost tell it is unique. The taste of the tea is sweet at first but is slightly bitter and light-bodied when swallowed.

DAISI / დაისი

Red Tea

DAISI, in English meaning "Sunset", is hand-plucked by local villagers only on full moon period, when the leaves absorb more water and at the new moon, when more moisture is pulled to the soil surface. This causes greater germination and better-established plants. At the sunset, our mountain side tea plantations colored with the "Sunset color", which is same of this tea.

Aroma and Taste of DAISI

Tea has some notes of cocoa, honey, subtle spicy touches, cooked lemon that gives it points of acidity and notes of aged wood. It has a light, smooth and delicately silky texture. The degree of taste balance and the predominant malt taste. It is true that in the mouth, the balance between low acidity and low amount of tannins make this tea honeyed, round and easy to drink that highlights the sweet flavour.
